

CULBENGAN  PHOTOGRAPHY

Born in 1996, Gregory Culbengan is based in Vienna, Austria.

As far as he can recall, he always had the drive to express himself in a creative fashion. Initially, he tried his hand at playing various instruments. Influenced by Japanese art and media in middle school, he began drawing both traditionally and digitally.

The discovery of light painting is what moved Gregory from drawing to photography. Executing said art form, he discovered his love for capturing the moment in all its beauty, and trying to enhance it even further.

His work „A Sunrise“, which he created at the age of 16, received great amounts of positive feedback and was featured on various websites. At that point in time, Gregory knew he had finally found it - the instrument for expressing himself and realizing his vision.

And with this realization, Gregory continues ever onwards, with boiling blood and a fierce passion for his art.

In his scarce amount of free time, he enjoys playing competitive shooters like the Halo franchise, and watching Japanese animation.
